

Friday, March 22, 2013

by Gary Black

Do not let the soporific title “Speech & Debate” fool you. It’s much more than you think it is.

“Speech & Debate” is the spring mainstage production being put on by Theatre UAF, opening tonight at the Lee H. Salisbury Theatre in the Fine Arts Complex. The play is a black comedic romp tackling some prevailing social issues facing today’s society, a theme that’s a favorite of director Carrie Baker, an associate professor of theater at the University of Alaska Fairbanks.

at ¶

t

the show and say, hey, I was one of them in high school. It was a different role for me as an actor, but it’s fun to throw myself out there like that.”

Filling Solomon’s shoes is Sambit Misra,